

Research Paper

A Preparation for Designing a Monotheistic Moral Life in Transcendental Wisdom

Fatemeh Sadat Moosavi¹ , Abdollah Salavati^{*2} , Einollah Khademy³

¹ PhD student at Shahid Rajaei Teacher Training University. Sadatmoosavi20@yahoo.com

² Professor of Shahid Rajaei Teacher Training University. a.salavati@sru.ac.ir

³ Professor of Shahid Rajaei Teacher Training University. e_khademi@sru.ac.ir

10.22080/jepr.2026.30036.1296

Received:

September 11, 2025

Accepted:

January 23, 2026

Available online:

May 29, 2026

Keywords:

Mulla Sadra, Human types, Ethical life, Communication, Soul

Abstract

The moral problems of the contemporary world arise from the false theorizing of Western anti-monotheistic and humanist philosophers, whose actions as intellectual designers of contemporary moral philosophy result in major policy-making in the inhumane behaviors of the current world. This article, using a library method, considering the anti-monotheistic roots of the designers of contemporary moral philosophy and results in human life, seeks to understand better ways of living and the correct ways to achieve happiness. Since the philosophy of monotheism, as source connected to the God who gives existence, has outlined the best path for human happiness and moral life And Islamic philosophers, especially Mulla Sadra, have been primarily concerned with instilling morality in human personality and its repercussions in human social life; by studying their works, we seek to infer and apply the provisions of this devout philosopher to design a path to achieving moral perfection in life. Because in this regard, Mulla Sadra, with his unique intelligence and philosophical expression, has been able to design a rational and moral framework based on monotheism, in which each individual's soul, as a world, is the starting point of moral journey and by providing provisions such as obedience to the Prophet, the Ahl al-Bayt (a.s.) and the divine saints, he gains existential spaciousness and intellectual perfection And while it considers the world as one, by considering the diversity of human types, it will adopt a better acceptance, interaction, and performance with the universe and God's creatures, in achieving an ethical life.

Corresponding Author: Abdollah Salavati

Address: Shahid Rajaei Teacher Training University

Email: a.salavati@sru.ac.ir

Tel: 09124540241